MESSAGE FROM DEAN MATASAR

On behalf of the faculty and staff of Chicago-Kent, welcome. You have made a wonderful choice of a school . . . and a profession. Your next three or four years will find you working hard, finding intellectual challenges, making new friends, and committing -- to study and serve.

You are coming to the law school at an exciting time. Our program is evolving daily, with new courses, new concentrations, and new faculty members. Whether your focus is environmental law, intellectual property, international law, dispute resolution, or anything else, you can carve out an identity as a Chicago-Kent student.

I'm also excited for you because you are entering the legal profession as it, too, is evolving. As you know, lawyers have never been popular. In recent years, we have been blamed for many national crises: a failed economy, crime, the cost of health care, even the spread of O.J. Simpson-itis. Yet, as much as I believe lawyers do not deserve to be labelled, and as much as I believe most lawyers to be honorable, productive contributors to a better life for their clients, I think that all of us in the law must confront our weaknesses.

- Do we sometimes file frivolous, wasteful lawsuits? Yes.
- Do we sometimes needlessly prolong litigation and disputing? Yes.
- Do we sometimes exhibit a lack of professionalism in our work? Lack of civility in our actions? Low ethical standards? Poor work habits? Yes, yes, yes, yes.

To our detractors, lawyers must admit that we can do better. But we must also remember the noble tasks in which we engage: the ability to bring people who dispute together to resolve their problems; the rights we have helped Americans find and preserve; the injured who have to be compensated. You enter the profession with a real chance to make it better by your very presence.

Chicago-Kent should challenge you daily to engage your education to seek ways of improving our profession, and to help make our society more just. We say here that your education gives you more than a license to practice law -- you receive leadership training. I envy you your opportunity to become all that you can.

WELCOME!!!

FROM ASSOCIATE DEAN HOWARD CHAPMAN

I am delighted to welcome you to our law school. You have excellent credentials and are well-qualified to be outstanding law students. You chose a terrific law school and we are very proud you joined us. As Associate Dean, I am responsible for the academic programs of the law school. It's my job to make sure that the years you spend at Chicago-Kent are rich and rewarding, and as free from administrative hassles as possible. But problems and questions will undoubtedly arise. If you have any administrative problems or questions about the academic program, please call me at 906-5130 (6-5130 from a phone in the building), visit me in my office, suite 320, or e-mail me (HCHAPMAN). If I can't help you, I will point you in the right direction. My door is open; no appointment is necessary and I look forward to meeting you. The next few years will be full of excitement and challenges; I wish you much luck and success.

FROM THE REGISTRAR

Please stop in this week and return the Change in Personal Information sheet included in your orientation packet. Our office is located on the north end of the second floor. We look forward to meeting and serving you.

The following hours have been scheduled for you to have your picture ID taken and to obtain your locker assignment. You must show a valid driver's license or a state I.D. card to the photographer. Please go to classroom 305 during the following hours:

FROM ASSISTANT DEAN OF STUDENTS JULIE FENTON

Exciting being here, isn't it? Gonna get the jump on all the reading. Stay up late. Get up early. Brief all of your cases. Generate a 100-page outline (once you figure out what that is) by the middle of the semester. Read your professors' law review articles. Figure out how to use "inter alia" in a sentence. Respond to Socratic questioning with cool confidence. You are going to be the best law student this school has ever seen. Right? Of course, right!

Scary being here, isn't it? Can't quite believe you're really finally here, in law school? Look at all these smart people. They seem to know what they're doing. Just met a doctor. And the student next to you is a Ph.D. in Engineering. Already behind in the reading. Have no idea what a "brief" is. Too afraid to ask a question and flaunt your ignorance. Professor Kingsfield teaches here? Legal Writing paper due when!? What the heck is "Justice," anyway? You are going to be the worst law student this school has ever seen. Wrong? Of course, wrong!

All of you are experiencing your own mixture of thrill and terror as you embark on this new adventure. But to the outside viewer, you all look calm, cool and prepared to take on these new challenges. If you're not feeling as collected as you appear, if you have questions you'd like to ask, if you want some tips on how to survive this crucial first year, come see Sherry Waldrep, our Student Development Counselor, or me, Julie Fenton, the Assistant Dean of Students. Sherry is in Room 546. Her telephone number is 906-5272, and her e-mail address is SWALDREP. I am in Room 544. My telephone number is 906-5271, and my e-mail address is JFENTON.

Our job is to handle matters of student concern, including academic difficulties, social adjustment, and personal problems, to name a few. Students with disabilities should contact me to arrange any necessary accommodations. If something is worrying you, don't suffer in silence. Sherry and I are here to relieve the trauma and stress that come with adjusting to this alien culture called law school.

By the way, you don't have to have a problem to come see us. Drop in and introduce yourself. As usual, Chicago-Kent has admitted an interesting and talented group of students. We look forward to getting to know you.

REMINDER: COMING LATE, LEAVING EARLY

Some instructors enforce a classroom policy that sanctions students who arrive late or leave early. They impose tardiness policies not to penalize students but to create a classroom atmosphere conducive to learning. Other instructors believe that adults with busy lives may have excellent reasons to be somewhere else for part of their class time. Regardless of whether an instructor chooses to be severe or lenient on this matter, however, students who walk into class late, or leave before dismissal, disrupt the lesson. For classes without a stated policy, we ask that you consider the costs to your classmates that arise if the time limits of the class are not respected. When doors open and close noisily, speakers are interrupted in mid-sentence, and concentrated thought is diverted, the rest of the class pays a price that may exceed the benefit of one individual's being elsewhere.

CAREER SERVICES NEWS

A Special Welcome to First-Year Students!

The Career Services Office is delighted to welcome you to Chicago-Kent. We look forward to meeting you and working with you as you begin your legal education.

Career services offices at law schools throughout the country do not provide career counseling services to first-year students before November 1 to comply with the requirements of the Association of American Law Schools and the American Bar Association Section of Legal Education (law school accrediting organizations), as well as the National Association for Law Placement standards. The National Association of Law Placement Principles and Standards state that first-year students and prospective employers should not initiate contact with one another before December 1.

These provisions were developed to insure that during the first few months of law school, first-year students concentrate on their legal studies rather than on the job search process. There is one exception -- eventing students seeking non-legal employment may visit the Career Services Office before November 1.

In early November, we will offer a series of programs designed specifically for first-year students. The date of the programs will be announced in the Record. The programs will tell you about our services and address the realities of the job market, how to structure a summer job search, and how to write a legal resume and cover letters.

First-year students are encouraged to attend informational programs we will offer this fall on a variety of topics. Watch the Record for program subject matter and times. During the first weeks of school, pick up a copy of Careerline, our office newsletter, for more career information and advice about law school from second- and third-year students. On Thursday and Friday, the Student Careers Committee will have a table set up during the orientation pizza parties -- stop by to meet committee and staff members.

The Career Services staff wishes you success as you begin your studies!

Lisa Abrams -- Assistant Dean for Career Services
Stephanie Rever Chu -- Director of Career Services
Ann Rainhart -- Administrative Manager
Dan Walsh -- Resource Manager
Barbara Clemmer -- Administrative Assistant

The Student Careers Committee Welcomes First-Year Students!

We are a working committee of the Career Services Office composed entirely of second- and third-year students. We assist the Career Services staff with developing new programming and we coordinate special projects with the staff.

One of our projects is to provide answers to first-year students' career questions. We know that it can be frustrating for first-year students because they cannot ask the professionals about career-related issues until November. If you do have those types of questions and you can't wait until November to get an answer, e-mail the Committee at "CAREERQ". A committee member will get back to you with an answer.

Stop by our table at the Thursday or Friday pizza party to find out more about the Committee! Welcome to Chicago-Kent!

CHECK IT OUT . . . NEWS FROM THE INFORMATION CENTER

Welcome to the Information Center

The Information Center staff would like to welcome new Chicago♦Kent and Stuart School students and welcome back all returning students. The Information Center encompasses the libraries of the IIT-Downtown Campus -- the Law Library, the Library of International Relations, and the Business Library. Together, they are an outstanding collection of law and business materials containing more than 475,000 volumes plus two million pages of imaged materials available electronically.

The "hub" of the Information Center is the Library Service Desk (LSD) located at the 9th floor main entrance. Circulation and Reference are located at the LSD -- the professional Law Librarians are available for reference assistance during most of the hours the Information Center is open. The Librarians are trained in library science and also have law degrees or other advanced degrees; they are able to assist with research in all the subject areas of the collection. The reference staff will be involved in legal research and online databases training.

Your student ID is your library card -- you will need it to check books out and get reserve materials.

The entire staff of the Information Center is happy to assist you in any way we can -- stop by the Library Service Desk and say hello!

NEWS FROM THE CLC (CENTER FOR LAW AND COMPUTERS)

Welcome to an exciting and challenging year! Throughout this first week of law school, the Center for Law and Computers (Center) will offer instruction about integrating law and technology, guide you to some of the basic resources available at Chicago-Kent, and help you be the best law student you can be. To get the most out of the technology resources available at Chicago-Kent, you may want to purchase a copy of the The Chicago-Kent Technology Guide, which will be available in the Chicago-Kent Bookstore.

More resources are available to you than ever before. Take time during this first week to visit the computer labs, log on to the network, read and send e-mail messages, and examine the Kentnet menu so that you are ready to use whatever you need to succeed in law school. There are student leaders, lab assistants and Center faculty and staff ready to answer questions and show you how to get the most out of Chicago-Kent.

On Thursday, August 16, 1995, the Center will offer three optional workshops for first-year students relating to the technology resources here at the law school.

Thursday, August 17, 1995: Room 590

- 1:30-2:25: Chicago-Kent Technology Resources
Saving e-mail files to ASCII text and importing into an electronic file management program; understanding the Windows menu; laser printing in the computer labs; making backups; bringing disks.
- 2:45-3:40: Electronic Personal Research Management with Folio VIEWS
Using computers to save, store, search, retrieve electronic information and text; using VIEWS software for managing information.
- 4:00-4:55: The Internet Through the World Wide Web and Usenet
Accessing the World Wide Web browser within the law school; general overview of Internet, including sending and receiving email, the "Web," and Usenet; network etiquette ("netiquette"). This session is designed for the non-technical computer user.

Every week, the Center provides valuable information about new computer software releases and instructions, new resources available through Kentnet and dial-in access to Kentnet, and other news in the Record. Look for information on Computer Law Association (CLASS) in the Record. Read the Record every week to stay updated on the technology resources available to you.

SPECIAL NOTICES

Shuttle Bus Schedules

A copy of the schedule for the shuttle bus between main campus and the downtown center can be picked up in the front lobby by the guard's station or on the concourse level.

Lexis-Nexis

Lexis-Nexis welcomes all incoming, first-year students! And welcome back to all continuing students as well; we missed you! This is an exciting year for Lexis-Nexis, Chicago-Kent and each and every one of you. We are pleased to announce that this year's Lexis Student Representatives are Kevin Csink (KCSINK), Karin Kiyabu (KKIYABU) and David Stone (DSTONE). Please feel free to e-mail any of our representatives with any questions you may have. In addition, Lexis is pleased to announce the introduction of a special e-mail address, LEXISQ, for all of your Lexis-Nexis inquiries.

Lab hours for the Student Representatives will be posted in next week's Record. Don't forget to pick up your Lexis Identification kCard. And remember, if you need any assistance, please contact any of our Student Representatives, or e-mail us at LEXISQ. Have a great year!

Westlaw

1Ls, welcome to Chicago-Kent! Christine Brown (CBROWN) and I, Steve Edmonson (SEDMONSO), are the student representatives for Westlaw, a name and service with which you will become very familiar. Christine and I are here to answer your questions, assist you with research and help you with any problems that arise while using Westlaw or West Publishing products. Please feel free to contact us at any time. In the next RECORD, we will let you know our scheduled lab hours. Have a great orientation week and, again, welcome to Chicago-Kent.

Toastmasters International

Don't forget to include Public Speaking Training in your Curriculum!

The ability to speak with eloquence and conviction in order to persuade an audience to accept your line of reasoning is perhaps more valuable in the courtroom than anywhere else. Cases are literally won as much by how something is said as by what is actually said.

Ensure a successful tomorrow by including public speaking training in your curriculum today. Toastmasters International, the not-for-profit public speaking organization of over 8,000 chapters world-wide, exists for that purpose. A local chapter meets at Chicago-Kent on the 2nd and 4th Tuesday of each month from 12:00 to 1:00 in a self-paced format, making it extremely convenient for students. (Faculty and staff are welcome, too!) With membership just $24.00 every six months, Toastmasters is also the most affordable choice for public speaking training.

"Guests" are always welcome to stop by without obligation to see the club in operation. Check the lobby board each 2nd and 4th Tuesday to see where the group is meeting. For more information now, contact Glenn Popielarski during the day at (312) 523-1441. Hope to see you soon!

Volunteers Needed

The Lawrence Hall Tutoring Project, sponsored by the Young Lawyers Section of the Chicago Bar Association, needs tutors to work with children and teenagers at Lawrence Hall Youth Services. Tutors spend one evening a week helping their student develop basic math and reading skills.

Lawrence Hall is one of the oldest child welfare agencies in Illinois, providing refuge for abused and neglected children. Residents participating in the tutoring project are boys, generally between the ages of 8 and 15.

The tutoring program runs from late September to late May, except for holidays and a Spring break. Volunteers are needed on either Monday or Wednesday evenings from 6:30 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. In addition, each volunteer is required to attend one training/orientation session. We ask that volunteers make a commitment to attend every tutoring session. As some absences are unavoidable, however, we are also looking for volunteers to act as substitute tutors.

Nothing is required except a willingness to work with children and youth. The program is not limited to CBA members; anyone willing to make the time commitment may participate.

Tutoring takes place at: Lawrence Hall Youth Services, 4833 N. Francisco, Chicago, IL 60625
If you are interested, contact Yvonne Hilst (C-K '94) at (312) 786-2244 or contact Alison Paul at Wilson & McIlvaine (312) 715-5000.

Casting Call

Now's your chance to get even with the professor who called on you for the facts in Aves! We need singers, dancers, actors, writers, musicians and technicians for a brand new Chicago-Kent tradition: an all-out original musical revue. Participants will meet to plan this event shortly before Labor Day. E-mail Arrienne Lezak (ALEZAK) if you are interested in joining the show.
